

Oestreicher finishes hotel's second phase

Brian Donovan, vice president with Oestreicher Construction Corporation recently announced the completion of the second phase of renovation for a residential apartment in the Sherry Netherland Hotel, at 781 Fifth Avenue in Manhattan.

The 2,000 s/f extension of a full floor apartment was built to completion with Oestreicher providing the construction management and general contracting services at the residential location.

The all-inclusive one floor apartment has been completely reconstructed over two phases to include the latest entertainment features, including the development of a media room with a 400 s/f projection system, and state of the art high definition television with a complete surround sound system.

In addition, Oestreicher's team was able to seamlessly integrate the "Full Swing" golf simulation system into the interior of the space, utilizing their unique talents into the novelty system. The new renovations provide high-quality features, such as today's most advanced broadband communication technologies and advanced entertainment systems into the space.
